

LIMITS OF CONFIDENTIALITY TO PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIP WITH KERIN LOGSTROM, M.A., LMFT

Contents of all therapy sessions are considered to be confidential. Both verbal information and written records about a client cannot be shared with another party without the written consent of the client or the client's legal guardian. Noted exceptions are as follows:

Duty to Warn and Protect

When a client discloses intention or a plan to harm another person, I am required to warn the intended victim and report this information to legal authorities. In cases in which the client discloses or implies a plan for suicide, I am required to notify legal authorities and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

Abuse of Children and Vulnerable Adults

If a client states or suggests that he or she is abusing a child (or vulnerable adult) or has recently abused a child (or vulnerable adult), or a child (or vulnerable adult) is in danger of abuse, I am required to report this information to the appropriate social service and/or legal authorities.

Prenatal Exposure to Controlled Substances

I am required to report admitted prenatal exposure to controlled substances that are potentially harmful.

Minors/Guardianship

Parents or legal guardians of non-emancipated minor clients have the right to access the client's records.

Supervision/Consultation

I occasionally find it helpful to consult other professionals about a case. During such consultation, I share only non-identifying information. Professional consultants are legally bound to keep the information I share confidential.

Legal Proceedings

In most legal proceedings, you have the right to prevent me from providing any information about your treatment. In some proceedings involving child custody and those in which your emotional condition is an important issue, a judge may order my testimony if the circumstances demand it.

I agree to the above limits of confidentiality and understand their meanings and ramifications.
